Season's Greetings!

Let's say goodbye! to this year with best wishes for the next one, which we hope will bring us the end of this pandemic for all

ANDERS RUNDBERG CEO OF CARUS

Message from our CEO

Anders
Rundberg

We bid farewell to this “different” year, with a “different” desire, and that is that we can all meet again as soon as possible, finally in the coming months of the new year, with renewed enthusiasm, and new projects eager to be carried out.

We started this year 2020 with great enthusiasm, as is usual in our organization and in the Carus family, but that soon turned into surprise and expectation, sometimes also in pain and loss, in the face of what no one could hope or imagine –and that is reality always exceeds the fiction. Thus we plunged into a pandemic year and we were forced to confine ourselves, the entire planet, to our homes, adopting incredible measures, with social distances, facial masks, extreme hand hygiene. A whole new world protocol that we had to confront. And, in the midst of this new situation, we couldn't help but think that all of us, finally, as one man, at the same moment and on the same planet, were together fighting an unexpected disease. This is what I want to appeal to today: the spirit of unity, of humanity, which has brought out the best in ourselves, in order to forge a new dawn, very soon, again, together.

During this different year, as a corporation, we also had good news, exciting news, and as we continue to add customers to our client base. This confirmed to us the strength of our products and advanced IT solutions, as well as the leadership that we proudly and responsibly represent in our ferry industry. There are now two more new clients, and some are in the portfolio, and about to be incorporated into the Carus family and into our ecosystem.

We have seen our team of professionals advance, and adapt to the new scenario, modifying their work habits, so as not to lose a single moment and continue giving the best of ourselves to our clients and to the clients of our clients, who are the millions of passengers we serve each year through our CarRes reservation system.

We have seen our clients weather the storm too, as only good captains and good seafarers know how to do. Our applause and our best wishes to them, because they have proven to live up to what can be expected in difficult times, as bridges over the sea, and as life lines that they really are.

And we have seen our desire to return grow and to continue providing our support to ours and to our customers, to the market, and to the shipping companies that trust our IT solutions: Reservations, Onboard, Port Automation!

So we bid farewell to this “different” year, with a “different” desire, and that is that we can all meet again as soon as possible, finally in the coming months of the new year, with renewed enthusiasm, and new projects eager to be carried out.

All the best, and specially now: take care and stay safe –the end of the nightmare is very close.

Anders Rundberg CEO of Carus

Season's Greetings

This year, we at Carus are remembering those who lost their lives or suffered during this pandemic. We honour them and pray that this experience brings us greater humanity and makes us all better people.
